What's a pod?

An 'ohana pod is a small group of the students from different households coming together to receive support from a caring adult in their 'ohana pod hui. The intent of pods is to build mutual support while minimizing the potential spread of Covid-19.

Why join?

Pods can help students and families share ideas, get resources like school supplies and materials and find a tutor to help with school work. 'Ohana pods can also include activities outside of academics such as: Social skills, physical activities, etc. These options exist virtually/online and in-person within the community.
